party representative.

"How absurd, unfair and unreal," Elsie said heatedly to newsmen who informed him of the decision. "Control of election machinery means a lot to them (the Democratic party)." All seven Supreme Court Justices are Democrats.

Under state law, the majority party is considered to be the party whose gubernatorial candidate wins the governor's job — Rockefeller, a Republican, in this case.

But the state Board of Election Commissioners is made up of the governor, the attorney general, the secretary of state and other state constitutional officers, plus the chairmen of the two parties. The Democrats hold a weighty majority on the board.

Chief Justice Carleton Harris dissented in part from the majority decision, saying, "I cannot believe that it was the intention of the legislature to permit the majority party to be represented by one whose beliefs and interest are contrary to the group represented."

"So, while I do not think that the board is required to appoint particular persons as third members of the several county boards of election commissioners, I do think that the board is required to name persons who are supporters of the majority party," Harris wrote.

Justice Paul Ward, the other dissenter, disagreed with the majority decision.

County boards of election commissioners are made up of one Republican party member, one Democratic party member, and one member appointed as majority party representative.

In Arkansas' long history of Democratic party control at the state, county and city level, the third-member issue arose rarely and then generally only in a factional fight within the Democratic party.

The majority opinion, written by Associate Justice Conley Byrd, said, "It has been suggested that the term 'representing the majority party' becomes meaningless unless it is interpreted as meaning a member of the majority party. With this we do not agree."

"The term 'representing the majority party' is apparently used in its common acceptance, i.e., to act on behalf of and to work with the majority party in selection of election judges and clerks."

Crank Cites Failures, WR Disagrees

RECTOR, Ark. (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial nominee Marion H. Crank told about 6,000 persons at the Rector Labor Day picnic Monday that Arkansas had "flattered and failed" during the first 18 months of Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's administration.

Crank said Rockefeller had failed to exert any leadership and that Arkansas' per capita income wasn't half the national average or anywhere near the figures for bordering states.

Rockefeller, who spoke earlier in the day, told the crowd that Arkansas was moving ahead economically and that the state was leading the nation in percentage gained in hourly wage rates.

My administration is concerned about the future of labor," Rockefeller said, after noting that the state's first minimum wage law was enacted this year.

Rockefeller asked why Crank didn't want to talk about competitive bids on public bonds and why he didn't want to talk about casino gambling.

The governor also said he would attempt to push through the 1969 legislature a bill creating a jury wheel system of selecting jurors.

"We are not going to have law and order until we have justice and justice only comes through your juries," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller also said he would like to hear more about Crank's "relationships with some of the special interests, and to ask you whether he is free to serve all the people."

Crank said Arkansas was developing an image as a state that wasn't financially sound and as one that didn't take care of its welfare recipients.

He also said the state was damaged nationally by publicity about the state prisons.

"This image is not helping us get new industries," Crank said.

He said Rockefeller proposed to change the conditions by "bloating bond issues, raising your taxes and passing a mixed drink bill."

"I heard your governor say he's got a four-year plan," Crank said. "I haven't seen any kind of plan come out of this administration."

Wednesday, The empress and others of the royal family have donated blood for the victims.

Kakkh, which lies almost on the edge of the great Dasht Kavoor Desert, is filled with troops, Red Lion and Sun (Red Cross) personnel and Boy Scouts trying to clear the rubble to find the dead and make way for rebuilding.

Rescuers pulled an old woman and her 3-year-old grandson out of the ruins 48 hours after the quake struck. She was reading the Koran and the child was crying for food.

Another woman veiled to her eyes begged for someone to help her find the bodies of her children and husband.

Some 31 towns and villages were devastated by the quake, and most of them are quickly becoming tent cities as rescue personnel move in. They want to start rebuilding before the pleasant weather of late summer disappears.

Food is being distributed to the hungry and medical aid is pouring in. Premier Amir Abbass Hoveida and five other government ministers are touring the area. They ordered water tankers and building materials sent to the scene.

Death Toll for Holiday Hits Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents across the nation during the extended Labor Day weekend took 666 lives, the largest number of traffic fatalities ever recorded for that holiday period.

The figure compared with 518 vehicle deaths in a recent non-holiday weekend of similar length.

The previous record traffic death toll for a Labor Day observance—always a three-day period—was 636, set in 1966. Last year the toll for the holiday was 606.

The number of motorists and pedestrians killed during the weekend observance was more than 10 times the number of American servicemen killed in combat in Vietnam during the same period.

The National Safety Council had estimated that 575 to 675 persons might die in traffic in the weekend which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

The Associated Press, for comparison purposes, surveyed traffic deaths during the non-holiday weekend starting Aug. 16 and tallied 518.

The worst single accident of this holiday period killed eight North Dakota teenagers Sunday in a two-car crash on Interstate 94 west of Jamestown, N.D. They were returning home from a party.

Five persons were killed and eight others were injured Monday night in Union County, Ark., in two traffic accidents that occurred 45 seconds apart.

The lowest death count for a Labor Day weekend since World War II was 246 in 1946.

The deadliest holiday on traffic records was the four-day Fourth of July celebration in 1967 when 732 persons were killed.

Death Toll on Arkansas Roads Eight

Two head-on collisions, occurring 45 seconds apart, claimed five lives and injured eight other persons Monday night, lifting Arkansas' Labor Day weekend traffic death toll to eight.

Both accidents occurred in Union County, one less than two miles north of Junction City on U.S. 167 and the other inside El Dorado's city limits on Southfield Road.

The report of the Junction City accident reached the Union County sheriff's office at 6:03 p.m. and the other followed 45 seconds later.

Two members of a Homer, La., family were killed at Junction City and four other members of the family were critically injured.

State Trooper Richard Branch identified the dead as Nathaniel Toliver, 31, and his 3-year-old son, Norman. Critically injured were Mrs. Marseline Toliver, 28, and the Toliver children, Nathaniel, 7, Nathaniel, 6, and Nicholas, 9 months.

Branch said the accident occurred in a sweeping curve 1.5 miles north of Junction City when a car driven by Carl C. Moore, 21, of El Dorado, crossed the center line and struck the Toliver car. Moore was also hospitalized at El Dorado.

Killed in the El Dorado crash were Billy W. Lanius, 19, of Camden and Larry Ashbrook, 19, and Sarah Silvertooth, 17, both of El Dorado.

Patrolman B. J. Campbell said Miss Silvertooth was a passenger in a car driven by Ashbrook. Two other passengers in the car, Jerry Ashbrook, 27, and Brenda Post, 15, both of El Dorado, were injured critically.

Lanius was the driver of the other vehicle and a passenger, Lloyd Earnest, 18, of El Dorado, was injured.

Informed sources said three weekly newspapers active in the liberalization drive would not be permitted to resume publication. They are Literarni Listy, the writers' association paper; a student magazine and the news magazine Reporter. The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda called Sunday for the "liquidation" of Literarni Listy.

Prague was calm Monday as a new school year began. Youngsters returning to classes headed an appeal from Vice Premier Frantisek Hamouz not to gather in large groups near the monument to St. Wenceslas, which has become a shrine honoring those killed in Soviet bloc invasion. A boy and a girl carrying national flags stood there all day.

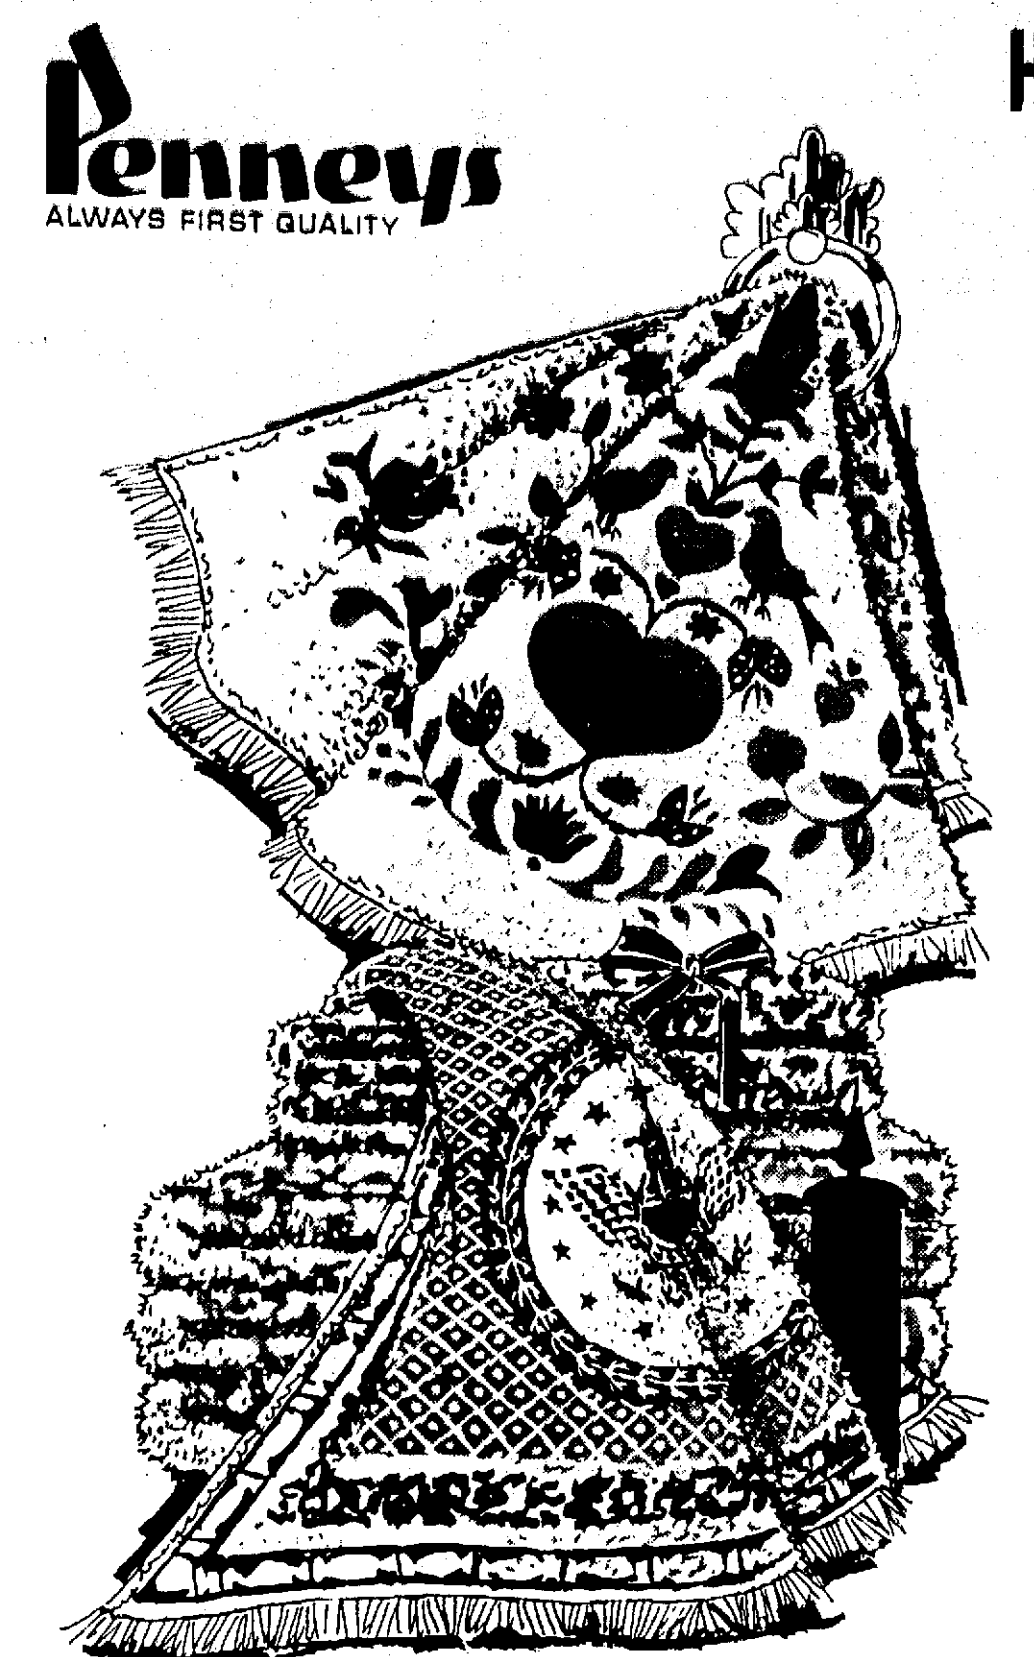

Virtually all anti-Soviet signs and slogans were gone from walls. Radio broadcasts indicated compliance with new instructions not to call the Soviet troops "occupiers."

Some broadcasts assured workers they would be compensated for all wage losses resulting from the "happening," including the brief general strikes protesting the invasion.

In Moscow, large numbers of government limousines were parked outside Communist party headquarters Monday, and Communist sources said they heard an important central committee meeting had been called to discuss Czechoslovakia.

No official information could be obtained, but the sources said the Kremlin was alarmed at the damage to its reputation from the invasion and was considering some conciliatory gesture such as a partial withdrawal of troops.

They said the Soviets were heard an important central committee meeting had been called to discuss Czechoslovakia.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS wound up its ambitious series of seven programs, "Of Black America," with a massive dose of statistics—impressive, dismaying, hopeful and sometimes overwhelming.

Television is partial to polls and surveys and CBS in particular has been fiddling around for several seasons trying to find a way to handle percentages, majorities and minorities in some illuminating visual manner. One try was its series of do-it-yourself quizzes, in which the viewer scored himself on the basis of a poll.

While it has not yet found a really satisfactory method, a poll on the nation's attitudes on what narrator Charles Kuralt called its "two greatest fears, white racism and black extremists" was a logical and precise means of winding up the series.

The poll, by an independent organization, was conducted among 1,000 persons in May and June.

Impressive were the findings that 9 of 10 Negroes disapprove of violence. Dismaying were statistics showing one-third of whites sampled were, to some degree, racists—projected by Kuralt and his co-narrator, Hal Walker, to add up to between 35 million 40 million.

Hopeful were what the narrators called "areas of commonality"—agreement that overcrowding and resentment were the causes of the disturbances; that in time racial equality will be a reality. And also hopeful was the report that only a small minority of Negroes approve the extreme positions—five percent, for instance, in the case of Rap Brown.

Producers of the hour program did the only thing they could to dress up the visual proceedings surrounding the load of numbers and percentages. They put a camera on some of the persons polled and let them present their viewpoints—from extremists on both sides to the sympathetic middle-of-the-roads.

It helped, but not enough. Television, by its very nature, has trouble handling statistics, whether it is reporting activity on the New York Stock Exchange or presenting the results of a poll. Such material is much easier handled on the printed page.

Generally, the series has been instructive, enlightening and purposeful. CBS can be proud of its thoughtful approach to a tough subject.

With Labor Day weekend behind, the summer-blooming programs will start disappearing fast. "Showcase '68" on NBC

TV NOTEBOOK

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

HOLLYWOOD—(N.E.A.)— And still the Andy Griffith family grows.

Remember when Jim Nabors as Gomer Pyle was just a filling station attendant without a USMC to his name on Andy's series? Then Jim and Gomer spun off to a hit of their own.

Now it's Ken Berry's turn, only it's really Andy who has spun off. After eight seasons as sheriff of Mayberry, Andy has quit his series to concentrate on movies. Moving in to Mayberry RFD on CBS-TV on Sept. 23 is Ken Berry as a town councilman, a widower with a young son, in a role that was introduced in four episodes of Griffith's show last season.

Everyone who knows Berry wants him to be a star and knows that he has the talent, personality and attractive appearance needed. Everyone, that is, except Ken.

He's an overly modest young man who refers to him-

Ken Berry
New Big Man in Mayberry self as an "actor of limited scope," and says he likes to will have its grand finale tonight. Later in the evening CBS will resume with its weekly actuality shows—an hour constructed from short and generally amusing features taped by Charles Kuralt and a camera crew as they wandered around the nation interviewing people and visiting off-beat spots. All portions were used earlier on Walter Cronkite's news program, and most of them are well worth a second look.

hide behind props like glasses and a beard. But when he was on F Troop, as bumbling Capt. Parmenter, many of the hilarious bits of slapstick business were Ken's own idea. Anyone who has seen him dance with the grace of Fred Astaire and sing more than passably during his guest appearances with ladies like Lucille Ball and Carol Burnett ("I'm Ken's stage mother," Carol says), knows Ken underestimates himself.

On Mayberry RFD, he has the role Andy Griffith had in the sense that the people around him and the situations supply the comedy. Ken plays his role with a degree of seriousness.

The management of Ken's career has been taken over by Richard O. Linke, who handles a small but salable stable that includes Griffith and Nabors. Linke, a respected man, is very much on Berry's team. "I didn't want another client," he says, adding that Ken's talent was too much to overlook.

Ken met Linke when Ken's wife, comedienne Jackie Joseph, called Linke because Ken was discouraged over a "job I had done which I figured I wouldn't have gotten if I had a manager. He would not have let me take it."

Meanwhile the spun-off Jim Nabors is about to begin his fifth, and possibly last, season as Gomer Pyle.

Sitting on the swimming pool deck of his canyon home overlooking the San Fernando Valley, Jim says, "They would like me to continue and I haven't decided if I should or not. It's a strange feeling. At the end I'll probably say to Dick Linke, 'Oh, you go ahead and decide.' He always makes the right decision. I'd be sad to leave Gomer, but on the other hand, I could go on to other things."

Jim wouldn't mind making a film, but he's not one of those eager to kick aside the medium that brought him fame and the kind of fortune that puts a new Rolls-Royce in his garage. "Those in TV, like Lucille Ball and Andy Griffith and Jackie Gleason, make more money than movie stars and are a million times better known. I laugh when I hear of people leaving TV for bigger things like movies. I could tell you of 40 who did it, but who didn't succeed. You have to prove yourself in all areas. Just because you're a success in TV doesn't mean you can be a success, for instance, in night clubs."

On Oct. 24, Jim will have another CBS-TV special, Girl Friends and Nabors. "I will say it's a good show and I'm not saying it in a vain sense," he smiles. "I can say it's good because the girls—Carol Burnett, Debbie Reynolds, Vickie Carr and Mary Costa—are wonderful."

Elders Shocked as Miniskirt Hits Saigon

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Vietnam's conservative elders are shocked. Saigon's intellectual community is in an uproar. Despite the war, the rain and the weight of tradition, the "miniskirt"—known most other places as the miniskirt—has arrived.

Saigon has spawned a generation of teenyboppers who cavort on the rain-splashed city streets in mod attire. They add brilliant splashes of color to the drab, war-tinted thoroughfares.

But most Vietnamese males don't seem to approve. Expressing an Oriental distaste for exhibitionism, particularly when the prying eyes of foreigners are around, one writer to a Saigon newspaper said: "These children, these flowers would wilt without their marijuana. They are obscene."

Like many others, he yearns

only compliment some husbands pay their wives to marry them."—Arnold Glasow.

Prosperity note: Many people in the middle-income brackets now pay more for government than they do for groceries. The Tax Foundation figured that if you earn $12,000 a year and have a wife and two children, you are probably forking out $2,789 for food but $4,080 to support your local, state and federal governments.

Don't let your children abandon hope of a higher education simply because they weren't scholastic standouts in high school. It is more fiction than fact that colleges are much tougher to get into. About seven per cent of the most popular ones are, because they receive about half of all applications. But many others have vacancies and are looking for new students.

It was Charles F. Kettering who observed, "Success is getting what you want; happiness is wanting what you get."

for the continued use of the aoi dai, Vietnam's traditional garb that girls strolled in along the once-graceful French boulevards of Saigon and Hanoi. A long white or flowered silk skirt slit at each side revealed loose white silk trousers and met, at a tiny waist, a bodice with a high collar and long sleeves.

Nowadays, the young Vietnamese girl may have things tied up her calves, a tiny miniskirt hugged to her thighs with a low-slung leather belt, topped off by a tight sweater.

She will splash through the puddles on Tu Do St., tilting her heels at the U.S. military policemen inside the barbed wire of American billets, or giggling from a motorcycle as she roars past in traffic, the flash of a thigh visible.

The aoi dai is still worn in Vietnam, particularly in the countryside, where even in the midst of war the village girls somehow manage to keep a white silk dress clean and pressed. In Saigon, too, a girl in a miniskirt can be seen sometimes walking beside her elder sister wearing the traditional garment.

The teenyboppers sometimes have to bear the ribaldry of Vietnamese soldiers on leave. "Chiu chiu!" they will shout at the girls. "Are you ready to play?" The girls, with a toss of their sometimes thigh length hair, flounce by.

Saigon newspapers have been taking notice of the miniskirted girls and attribute the fashion to French fashion magazines available on the local market.

One newspaper said: "They are our hippies, wearing dog chains, pensive before their black coffee cups, wreathed in the sheath of lassitude that marijuana smoking brings."

The traditional attitude to romance still survives. Daddy expects her home before curfew, and she is.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

ON "ADULT" TYPE FILMS

Dear Mrs. Bottel: I read in your column a letter from an eighth grader asking, "Why can't they make good movies for kids?"

I am the distributor of one of the pictures he mentioned, "Teenage Mother," and I take issue with him for the following reasons:

1. If the picture is advertised, "Adults Only," how does he know that means "anyone who can pay to get in," unless he has tried it? It would seem to me that censorship belongs with the individual or his parents, since our advertising and title are not misleading. We cannot police every booking or tell a theater owner how to run his business.

2. I wonder where this eighth grader and his parents and friends were when I released "Brightly of the Grand Canyon" last January. Sam Lesner reviewed the picture and said "A splendid family film." Unfortunately, the producer of "Brightly" will be lucky to get back his investment, whereas the producer of "Teenage Mother" is already making another picture on his profits.

I know that most of the Walt Disney movies are very successful, but they are the exceptions. Other producers have tried and probably will keep on trying to bring entertainment to the children, but unless they are profitable to both the theater and the distributor, simple arithmetic says to change the policy.—JACK GILBRETH, GILBRETH FILM CO., CHICAGO.

Dear Helen: I am 17, and an ardent movie fan. I like well done adult flicks, like "The Graduate," "The Fox," etc. but I do think there is too much emphasis on sex and violence today.

Maybe, as they say, the sordid movies are only reflecting what happens in the world, but we still need movies to save our sanity and to tell us there is still hope . . . Not just as "pure escapism" as the producers call it, but to restore our faith.

I'll bet "Yours, Mine and Ours" earns as much money as "Ours" earns as much money as the box office as five Grade-B "sin and sex" uglies.—FOR MORE UPBEAT FLICKS

Dear For: You'd better believe it will. Of course "Y.M. and O." probably cost five times as much to produce. And this may be the answer to "Eighth Grader's" question: Sexy potboilers are cranked out fast; good family-type shows take more time and money, and unless they are exceptionally good—plus expensively promoted—they may bomb.

Nevertheless, the "wholesomes" are always around. I checked the theater page in our local paper today and discovered that at least one-third of the movies listed could be approved for children. Really, that's not a bad average.—H.

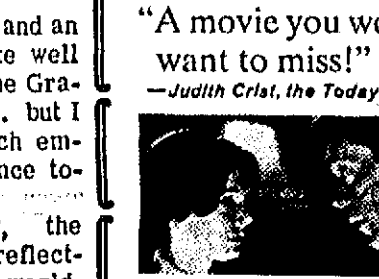

Dear Helen: I just had an argument with my mother. I said that if your 12-year-old daughter's legs were real hairy, like mine, you'd let her shave them. My Mom said you wouldn't. I'm not sure I'll win, but it's worth a try.—FUZZY WUZZY
Dear F.W.: Good try. You won't.—H.

Murphy Is Winner of Thunderbird

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Bob Murphy, $30,000 richer after winning the Thunderbird Golf Classic, attributed it all to a key shot on the 15th hole.

The chunky, red-haired Murphy held a one-shot lead over Bob Lunn as the pair, playing together, approached the 190-yard, par three water hole.

Lunn, hitting first, put his ball 10 feet from the pin but Murphy got within six feet. Then Lunn missed his putt and Murphy made his to take a two-stroke lead.

"That was probably my best shot of the round," Murphy said. "I just took a six iron, hit it up in the air and it landed near the hole."

Murphy ended with a 68 Monday to give him a 277 for the four days of play over the 7,035-yard, par 72 Upper Montclair Country Club course. It was his second consecutive tour win.

Lunn, who also won two straight tournaments earlier in the year, finished with a 69 for 280 and a tie for second with Australian Bruce Crampton, also with a 69.

Homero Blancas was fourth with a 72 for 282 as third-round leader Gary Player skied to a 76 for a fifth-place tie with Dan Sikes, 70, and Jack Nicklaus, 71. Defending champion Arnold Palmer shot a 71 to finish in a four-way tie for 10th place at 286.

The biggest challenge to Murphy's victory was a downpour that threatened to wash out the entire round just as he was approaching the 18th green.

"It delayed play for 1 1/2 hours and left large lakes in the bunkers and fairways."

Two Arkansans in Finals

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Two professional golfers from Arkansas enter today's final round of the $150,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic 11 strokes back of the leader, but in position to pick up sizeable checks.

Dick Crawford of Bella Vista and Miller Barber of Texarkana are tied for 22nd place at 217. Crawford had a 71 Sunday after rounds of 72-74. Barber followed up rounds of 73-70 with a 74.

NFL WEST: Central Division—Minnesota

PROSPECTUS—This is the dark horse team of the National Football League. "It all depends on our quarterbacking and receiving," says coach Bud Grant, a tactician type. The expansion agonies are over. The Vikings have the strong bodies spotted throughout the line-up that can match the other teams physically. The little push that makes a winner must come from the two or three potential super-performers. Plus, of course, a quarterback to lead them. It's hard to peg their immediate capabilities. PREDICTION—Fourth in Central Division.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Comes down to whether Gary Cuozzo is "another Unitas" as first envisioned at Baltimore. He's in better spot than last year at New Orleans, where he had to scramble for his life. Gary's smart enough—has to hold up physically and get the ball to his receivers. Joe Kapp is stronger but still mystified by NFL Rating—B.

RECEIVING—Has to be better if Gene Washington's training camp showing is for real. The big Michigan State has all tools to be another Homer Jones, except exceptional hands. They've moved Paul Flatley, a steady pro, flanker and let soph John Beasley take over at tight end, supported by Billy Martin. Rating—B.

RUNNING—Could be terrific. Already solid, with Dave Osborn second leading rusher in league and bowlegged Bill Brown, who catches as well as runs back in football, to crash lines. Now Clint Jones shows signs of coming around as a game-buster around the flanks. With Mike Lindsey, Earl Denny for depth, Vikings have it all. Rating—A.

LINE—A stable unit that's in its third year of working together and strengthened, if anything, by prospect of top draftee Ron Yary breaking into the tackle corps of Grady Alderman (only original Viking left) and Doug Davis. Milt Sunde, Larry Bowie are rugged-sized guards. Mick Tingelhoff is merely best center in league. Rating—B.

DEFENSE

LINE—Togetherness is the key here, too. Alan Page at tackle should start preloping into an all-league. Gary Larsen or Paul Dickson get the job done alongside him. At the ends, Carl Eller has the great physical potential, and Jim Marshall has the experience. Sometimes they don't rush the passer as they should. But they're capable of it. Rating—B.

LINEBACKING—Last year's trio of Lonnie Warwick in middle, Roy Winston and John Kirby at corners is intact. There's challenge, however, from eager face of rookies—Ron Ackles, Mike McGill. And for versatility, strongside safety Dale Hackbart's been working as a corner backer, too. Improvement in performance will have to come from the kids. Rating—B.

SECONDARY—Major change finds Paul Krouse at free safety. He was an all-pro for Redskins. Underrated plunger Karl Kossulke holds down strong side. The corners are the same, Earnest Mackbee and Ed Sharrockman, and Vikings get burned by speed merchants here. But Grant considers secondary most improved because he's started to work in kids like Charley West, Mike Freeman, Bobby Bryant. Rating—B.

KICKING—Traded away veteran punter Bobby Walden because they're confident that Fred Cox, dependable place-kicker, can boot spirals, too. Rating—B.

Gibson Needs Help to Win 20th Game

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Gibson is good, but even he needs help now and then. Like, perhaps an occasional ache in the opposing pitcher's ankle.

Gibson, St. Louis' ace right-hander, won his 20th game of the season Monday night, beating Cincinnati 1-0 with some 10th inning aid from Gary Nolan's heel and Julian Javier's bat.

Javier stroked the leadoff homer that broke the scoreless duel and gave the Cardinals their victory. But if Nolan's aching Achilles tendon hadn't acted up, Gibson might still be pitching.

Nolan had throttled the Cards on five hits and fanned eight through the first nine innings but when the pulled Achilles tendon in his right ankle started bothering him, Reds' Manager Dave Bristol brought in submariner Ted Abernathy.

Javier, who had only two homers all season, greeted Abernathy with No. 3 and Gibson had the run he needed.

In other National League action on a busy Labor Day, Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Houston 6-1 and 4-3 in 10 innings. Atlanta topped New York 3-1 and then battled to a 2-2 tie ended by rain after six innings. San Francisco battered Chicago 8-4 before the nightcap was halted by darkness tied at 1-1 after nine innings, and Philadelphia swept two from Los Angeles 5-4 and 7-5.

In the American League, Washington swept a pair from Chicago 1-0 and 11-3, New York split with Baltimore, winning 4-2 before losing 4-3 in 10 innings. Minnesota tripped Boston 5-1, Oakland split a pair with Detroit winning 4-0 and then losing, 4-3 in 10 innings, and Cleveland topped California 4-2.

The four-hit shutout was Gibson's 12th of the year and it marked the third time in the last four seasons that the Cardinal ace has reached 20 victories. He missed only in 1967 when he was out for two months with a broken leg.

Gibson struck out eight and two of the four singles he allowed came with two out in the 10th inning as the Reds staged a last-gasp rally.

Bob Veale pitched a three-hitter and Donn Clendenon drove in three runs, helping Pittsburgh to its first game victory over Houston. Rusty Staub homered for the Astros.

The Pirates completed the sweep when Chris Cannizzaro's single drove in Bill Mazeroski with the winning run in the 10th inning of the nightcap. Mazeroski had singled and raced all the way to third when center fielder Jim Wynn let the ball get past him.

Juan Marichal won his 24th game for the Giants as Jesus Alou's four hits and four runs batted in paced a 17-hit San Francisco attack. Jack Hlatk had a two-run homer.

Billy Williams' 23rd home run tied the second game for the Cubs in the sixth inning. Chicago had a chance to win it in the ninth when Randy Hundley opened with a triple but the catcher was thrown out trying to score on Don Kessinger's bounce to Ron Hunt.

Mike Lum's two-run homer carried Atlanta past New York in their first game with Cecil Upshaw saving the victory for starter George Stone, who happens to be his cousin.

The nightcap went six innings before rain ended it. Bob Tillman homered for the Braves and J.C. Martin's two-run triple accounted for both Met failures.

Doug Clemens doubled and scored Philadelphia's deciding run on Don Lock's pinch single in the sixth inning as the Phillies nipped the Dodgers in the opener.

The Phils struck for five runs in the third inning of the nightcap for a 7-1 lead, but needed 3-2-3 innings of scoreless relief pitching from Dick Farrell to repulse a Dodger comeback and nail Woodie Fryman's first victory since July 27.

High School Poll Picks Northside

Fort Smith Northside has taken up right where it left off last year.

The Grizzlies received all 11 first place votes this week in The Associated Press pre-season high school football poll. Northside finished 12-0 last year and was a unanimous choice in the final AP poll.

Little Rock Hall, with nine second place votes, finished second with 96 points. North Little Rock was third with 87, Northside, Hall and North Little Rock are members of the newly created Class AAAA.

Springdale, a member of the western division of Class AAA, was fourth followed by Fayetteville, Pine Bluff, Little Rock Central, Russellville, Camden Fairview and Magnolia. The latter three are Class AA teams.

Northside opens its season Friday night against Van Buren. Hall opens Sept. 13 against Little Rock Catholic while North Little Rock takes on Jacksonville this Friday night.

Springdale, Fayetteville, Camden Fairview and Magnolia are also in action in this week.

Bill Stancil, coach at Northside, was told recently that the Grizzlies would probably be ranked first in the pre-season poll.

"That's the best place to start," he said.

Here are the results of the Associated Press poll with first place votes in parentheses and total points at right:

1. FS Northside (11)
2. LR Hall
3. North Little Rock
4. Springdale
5. Fayetteville
6. Pine Bluff
7. LR Central
8. Russellville
9. Camden Fairview
10. Magnolia

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Bentonville, Conway, El Dorado, Hot Springs, Jacksonville, LR Catholic, Malvern, Rogers, Texarkana and West Memphis.

Travs Open Playoff With El Paso

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas and El Paso open a best-of-five series for the Texas League baseball championship tonight at Ray Winder Field in Little Rock.

Arkansas captured the Eastern Division flag and El Paso won the Western Division. The teams will meet here again Wednesday night before moving to El Paso Thursday to conclude the playoffs.

Arkansas ended regular season play at Memphis Monday night, dumping the Blues 2-1. Meanwhile, El Paso blasted Albuquerque 13-4.

Jerry Reuss will pitch for Arkansas tonight and Phil Knuckles will go for the Travelers in Wednesday's game. The Sun Kings held a 12-8 advantage over Arkansas during the regular season, going 8-2 at El Paso and 4-6 in Little Rock.

At Memphis Monday night, the Travelers pushed across 13 single runs in the sixth and ninth innings to trim the Blues behind the three-hit pitching of Joe DiFabio, who logged his 13th victory against six defeats.

In other league action, Shreveport beat Dallas-Fort Worth 6-5 and Amarillo pounded San Antonio 13-1.

Arkansas 000 001 001—2 5 2
Memphis 000 000 001—1 3 0

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — The nation's new amateur bicycle champion is John Howard. The Springfield, Mo., cyclist won the senior competition Sunday over a 110.6-mile course.

BOBBY LUTZ could be one of the big surprises in the National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills. The young Californian recently battled Arthur Ashe for two hours, 39 minutes before losing the U.S. Men's singles title.

Tigers Split to Keep 7 Game Lead

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Freehan and Frank Robinson fired the shots heard 'round the upper reaches of the American League, but the underdog quivered from the restless rumblings of a gentle giant.

While 10th inning home runs 110 by Detroit's Freehan and Baltimore's Robinson preserved the status quo in the pennant race 87 Monday, towering Frank Howard went on a six-hit spree that 62 put him back in the Triple 50 Crown picture and led the lowly 46 Washington Senators to their 38 first doubleheader sweep of the 12 season.

Freehan hit his 21st homer with two out in the 10th, giving the first place Tigers a 4-3 nod over Oakland after the Athletics took the doubleheader opener 4-0 behind Jim Nash's four-hitter.

Robinson's 14th homer, a one-out shot in the 10th, sent the runner-up Orioles past New York 4-3 for a split of their twin bill. The Yankees won the first game 4-2 with a four-run third inning flurry.

The divided doubleheaders left Detroit seven games ahead of the Orioles in the September stretch race.

Howard, the major league home run leader with 39, boosted his batting average eight points to .283 by spraying four singles, a double and a triple around D.C. Stadium as the last-place Senators trimmed the Chicago White Sox 1-0 and 11-3.

The 6-foot-7 slugger drove in two runs for a season total of 98, four less than league RBI leader Ken Harrelson of Boston. He trails Minnesota's Tony Oliva by six points in the batting race.

Minnesota downed Boston 5-1 on Jim Kaat's three-hitter and Cleveland beat California 4-2 in AL single games.

In the National League St. Louis nipped Cincinnati 1-0 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh swept Houston 6-1 and 4-3, Philadelphia took two from Los Angeles 5-4 and 7-5, Atlanta defeated New York 3-1 in the opener of a scheduled doubleheader and San Francisco whipped Chicago 8-4 in the first of another scheduled pair.

Rain washed out the Braves-Mets nightcap with the clubs tied 2-2 in the sixth and the Giants and Cubs were deadlocked 1-1 after nine when darkness forced a halt.

Freehan's homer off Diego Segui, the sixth Oakland pitcher in the nightcap earned the Tigers a split after the A's had tied the game on Danny Cater's run-scoring single in the eighth. Cater's hit came off Roy Face, the veteran relief specialist acquired by the Tigers last Saturday from Pittsburgh.

Nash struck out 10 Tigers in the first game, fanning Willie Horton four times in a row. Cater drove in two runs with a fifth inning single off loser Mickey Lolich.

Frank Robinson drilled his sudden death homer off Lindy McDaniel, who entered the game after the Yanks rallied for three runs in the seventh to overcome a 3-0 deficit. Bobby Cox' two-run single capped the comeback. Merv Rettenmund hit a two-run homer for the Orioles.

Bill Robinson's two-run single keyed the Yanks' decisive third inning burst in the opener, which swept Mel Stottlemyre to his 18th victory against 11 losses. Steve Hamilton pitched three hitless innings of relief for New York after a 44-minute rain delay in the sixth.

More Scent sniffed the sweet smell of success, but it was swept away by the wind-like charge of Damascus.

Damascus earned $70,330 for Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft and War Censor took down $68,636 for Fourth Estate Stable, but this was just pocket money compared to what a quarter horse named Three Oh's won for Dr. John D. King of Waxahachie, Tex.

Major Loop Attendance Has Dropped

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lack of a pennant race and some threatening weather resulted in a big drop in major league baseball attendance on Labor Day.

Only 156,250 turned out for the 17 games, compared with 251,469 for 18 games a year ago when the American League was involved in a four-team race for the championship.

Four doubleheaders helped the National League attract 82,635, compared with 118,368 in 1967. In the American, where there were three doubleheaders, 73,615 turned out, compared with 113,101 last year.

A crowd of 35,061 jammed Chicago's Wrigley Field for a doubleheader with the Giants, but only 5,240 attended Los Angeles' twinbill at Philadelphia. The Detroit at Oakland game drew the largest crowd in the American—20,464.

Bobcats Are Drilling for Opener

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Things are coming down to a head now, with the climax coming at the 7:30 kickoff Friday night.

It will be something to see when the Bobcats hit the field, confident that their winning formula will start working. Nevertheless, one asks the questions to himself doubting the strength of his team, and very hopefully those doubts will soon be forgotten.

The coaching staff is satisfied with the squad's progress but no one is overconfident. They remember the 2-6-1 mark of a year ago, after all the pressure buildup.

More reports from Ashdown indicate losses by injuries and several dropping football. All things considered, at this point Hope seems a little stronger.

Our annual Hope Star Football Edition is nearly complete, and will be included as a special section in Friday's Star.

Operation face saving received a tremendous boost over the holiday weekend.
But two big hurdles still face the National Football League in its belated effort to stave off humiliation by the American League.

Pancho Only a Sentimental Tennis Choice

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Tony Roche was a 3-year-old tyke waddling around his parents' farm house in Tarcutta, Australia, when Pancho Gonzalez won the last of his two U.S. Tennis Championships on the center court here in 1949 and went onto become seven-time professional champion of the world.
Today they clash for one of the quarter-final spots in the U.S. Open, and the sentimental choice is Pancho, the aging, one-time king of them all.
"No, I've never played Tony," said Pancho, now 40.
Old Pancho electrified the gallery at the West Side Tennis Club Monday with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Mal Anderson that had his many admirers gushing.
The men play for quarter-final spots today and half of the remaining ladies go for the semifinals.
In these matches, Britain's Ann Jones, seeded No. 2, plays Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., and Britain's Virginia Wade, No. 6, faces Judy Tegart of Australia, runner-up to Billie Jean King in the Wimbledon Open.
In the men's matches today, Rod Laver of Australia, the top-seeded favorite, opposes Cliff Drysdale of South Africa; third-seeded Ken Rosewall faces the winner of the unfinished match between Ron Holmberg and Bob Lutz, and fourth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia takes on bearded Wally Ulrich of Denmark.

America's two Davis Cupaces — Arthur Ashe and Clark Graebner — remain alive, Ashe, No. 6, playing Roy Emerson of Australia, No. 14, and Graebner, No. 7, opposing Gene Scott of New York.
Nicola Pietrangeli of Yugoslavia, who upset 12th-seeded Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico 6-4, 9-7, 4-6, 6-4, tackles the winner of the unfinished match between Dennis Ralston, seeded sixth, and Mexico's little Joaquin Loyo-Mayo. The Mexican led the match, two sets to one.

Andretti and Foyt Make It a Race

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and A. J. Foyt of Houston put on a flying finish before a crowd of 18,400 Monday afternoon with Andretti winning the 100-mile Ted Horn Memorial Auto Race by 1.7 seconds over Foyt at the Du Quoin State Fair.
Andretti took the lead on the eighth lap and held it until the finish with Foyt driving right on his tail pipe for 14 of the last 15 laps. It was Andretti's third victory of the 1968 U.S. Auto Club season.
The victory moved Andretti into second place in the national point standings with Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., holding his lead at 3,250. Andretti moved into second with 2,488 points and Al Unser, Bobby's younger brother, is third with 2,334.
Sinatra-Taylor Film Is Off
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra is bowing out of a motion picture that would have costarred him with Elizabeth Taylor.

Harding Runner Finishes Third

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — Jim Crawford of Harding College turned in a 3:48.9 Saturday to finish third in one heat of an intrasquad track meet for U.S. Olympic hopefuls.
Crawford's time was fifth best for the two heats. Jim Ryan, the Kansas sensation, won Crawford's heat with a 4:13.

He Cloaked Nudes

The fellow artists of Daniele-da Volterra called him the "painter of big breeches" because he was hired to paint cloaks over some of the nude figures in Michelangelo's
"Last Judgment."

woman who slipped on a gob of grease, which had remained on an escalator step long enough for store employees to have noticed and removed it.

On the other hand, even if the management does see danger, there may be no practical way to avoid it.

In one case the hostess in a hotel
spied a drunk weaving his way toward the escalator. Though she tried to restrain him, he pushed her aside, stepped aboard, and toppled backward to the floor.

Afterward, the man complained that the hostess "should have stopped me by force." But a court decided that was too much to expect—especially since he weighed twice as much as she did. All in all, the court concluded, the man had no one to blame but himself.

Before you're determined to have the last word in a barroom discussion, be sure that it won't be "Help!"

RUSTIC VENICE is the village of Ganvie in the African Republic of Dahomey. The villagers live "on stilts," their homes perched precariously on poles a few feet above the water level. Only means of transportation are the slender, dug-out canoes which the natives paddle along the watery streets.

The man who wears both suspenders and a belt is secure if he remembers to carry a couple of safety pins
for good measure.

South needed all these safety precautions to bring home his three no-trump contract.

There were plenty of tricks available if South could only establish them but he had to race against West's spade suit and West got the jump by opening the jack.

South had to win that trick,
otherwise he would have only one spade stopper. Then South had to find a way to collect nine tricks before the defense could get five. Should the club suit be a v c properly
there would be 10 tricks—five clubs, three hearts, one spade and one diamond. It became apparent that clubs was the suit to work on. South could take and lose a club finesse with safety because he would be finessing into West and South could afford to let West get the lead.

Therefore South led a club toward dummy's ace. His suspenders and belt were both functioning properly up to the point when West produced the queen of clubs.

South paused to get out his safety pins. Then he played a low club from dummy. His original plan had been to keep East out of the lead. He was not going to change it.

West made his best play. He led a low diamond but South was working on nine tricks and went right up with dummy's ace. Then he ran off four clubs and three hearts for a 10th by leading a diamond toward dummy but East got in with the king and was able to lead a spade to his partner.

A—Bid three no-trump. Your partner has told you that he can take care of the spade suit.
You have 14 points and want to be in game.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding two no-

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Piles and Hemorrhoids Are One and the Same

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—Are piles and hemorrhoids the same? Can straining make them bleed? How can you treat them?

A—Piles and hemorrhoids are the same. When they are present, passing a hard stool with or without straining may cause bleeding. The treatment of choice depends on several factors but some kind of operation is usually required for lasting relief.

Q—What kind of food should
one avoid if one has bleeding piles?

A—There are no foods that need to be avoided but you should eat enough vegetables and fruit to keep your stools
from being hard and difficult to pass.

Q—How long does it take after the removal of hemorrhoids to get relief?

A—Following a hemorrhoid-ectomy, a surgeon usually prescribes diocetyl sodium sulfocinate to keep the stools soft and an icebag locally to minimize the pain of the cut surfaces. On the following day, the icebag is discontinued
and a hot sitz bath is taken.
The discomfort should have pretty well disappeared by the end of the third week.

Q—My husband is a drafts-
man. All of his fellow workers are troubled with piles. I suppose this is due to prolonged sitting. Is there anything my husband can do to avoid getting piles?

A—The predisposing causes of piles include prolonged straining at stool, pregnancy in women and a hereditary weakness of the connective tissue supporting the hemorrhoidal veins. A sedentary occupation in itself is not a cause but anyone who must sit for long periods should get up and stir around for a couple of minutes every hour. He should also get some regular exercise daily in order to maintain his physical fitness.

Q—Can hemorrhoids involve the upper rectum and large intestine or cause polyps to form?

A—Hemorrhoids are classified as internal and external but even the internal variety does not involve the upper rectum or colon. Polyps are an unrelated condition.

Q—What is the cause of muscular neuritis or neuromyositis? Is there any effective treatment?

SHORT RIBS

that the management is not an absolute guarantor of a passenger's safety. Some risk is inherent in the very nature of this means of transportation. Take this case:

A woman approached an escalator, leading her small son by the hand. But just as she moved onto the first step, the boy stopped short in fright. When the woman reached back for him, she lost her balance and fell.

But again, after a court hearing,
the judge could find no grounds for pinning responsibility on the management. He said the cause of the accident was simply "the effect the escalator has upon a person who steps upon it without putting his body in corresponding motion."

Nonetheless, a store is indeed obliged to prevent an accident when it reasonably can—either by adequate supervision or by proper upkeep of the equipment. Thus:

A man who fell because an escalator gave a sudden, violent jerk won a damage award. So did a

NEA Staff Correspondent

BALTIMORE, Md.—(NEA) —The press conference was set up in a small, stuffy room. Media reporters, television cameramen peeped over audience heads, and lights and photo flash units winked to life.

Spiro Agnew sat in the middle.

He looked, as usual, like a man in the Sears, Roebuck catalogue. Not stylish, exactly, but virile. His suit, blue, was custom. His shirt, white, spread collar. His dark tie neatly fastened—two loops at the knot.

Then the cameras began to focus. Room movement stopped. Reporters leaned forward on their pencils. And the press conference was in session.

"Governor, can you tell us . . . ?"

"Mr. Agnew, what about . . . ?"

"Sir, do you feel you will . . . ?"

Spiro T. Agnew, first citizen of this state and Republican candidate for vice president, answered quietly, calmly. And as he spoke he sat upright, back straight, hands folded, like a freshly rouged nannequin.

"The Greeks probably have a word for Spiro Agnew's grooming. But in English it's 'meticulous.' Somebody once asked the man why his trousers were never wrinkled and he told them matter of factly that he never crossed his legs.

Close friends of the governor say his personal appearance is something of a display of his personal philosophy. They mean the governor similarly disciplines his whole life—public and private—to be spotless.

And largely it is. With one well known exception.

The only black mark against Agnew is just that: black. Negroes across the nation suspect this man and in Maryland they openly resent him.

The press conference was a telling illustration. Agnew aides (white) bubbled about the "national honor" the governor's nomination had shed on Maryland. But the few Negroes in attendance grumbled about the "national shame."

One of the observing Negroes, Marshal W. Jones, the state's leading black Republican, passed an open letter which expressed the Negro's "antipathy" towards Agnew. The worry being he might "deny them full participation in American life."

And if the Negro sentiment inside the press briefing was anti-Agnew, it was even worse outside. There, dozens of demonstrators had formed a chanting protest.

"Is I black or is I white?"

"Yo' white, massah, yo' white."

"Is I wrong or is I right?"

"Yo' right, massah, yo' right."

Most of the pickets seemed content to simply gripe in general about Agnew policies. But others condemned specific positions taken by the governor.

Some of the specifics:

One picket, a 15-year-old youngster, lamented Agnew's viewpoint that, in certain cases, "shooters should be shot by police." "If I steal some soap at the grocers," the lad asked, "is Agnew gonna get the cops to kill me?"

Another demonstrator, a woman, complained that Agnew recently made a severe cutback in state Medicaid benefits, thereby trimming 22,000 people from free medical assistance. "The man," she said, "just ain't for poor people."

A third protester, again a woman, argued the governor was against open housing in Maryland. She said the present Agnew-supported open housing law is "so puny, it ain't made a piddle of difference to black folk."

The gripes were endless. The black faces shouted at the doors of the governor's press room and when nothing happened they shouted at each other:

Negro extremism! "Agnew wants all the good little niggers to hate the bad little niggers. He sits up there on the plantation and says Stokely Carmichael is bad and Whitney Young is good. He thinks Joe Louis is a prince."

Negro officials! "The man thinks he's Abe Lincoln because he has given a few Negroes state jobs. Big deal. What good is it to have black men high up if the white men who are higher up won't even listen to them?"

Conservatism! "Agnew is worse than George Wallace. At least Wallace stands up and says exactly what he is and what he ain't. But Agnew just sits in the middle, leaning this way and that, which ever is profitable."

Racism! "I may be poor but I ain't blind. I got a television set and I can see Agnew strutting up there with Strom Thurmond."

Inside, the press conference continued. Spiro Agnew answering the same questions being raised on the street.

The air conditioner weakened, shirts wilted. But Agnew, in the stuffiest spot of the room, remained totally unflustered.

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(NEA) —West Street. "Black Boulevard." The Negroes cluster to shop and stroll. Kids play tag in the grocery stores, girls play hard-to-get in leather skirts, men play it cool in automobiles.

There's Joe Sims over there.

"Hi, Joe, got a minute?"

Sims plays politics. He's a shaven-headed, mandarin-mustached, turtle-neck-and-beads fellow who is an unofficial spokesman for the Negro community. He's a mayoral liason, a civil rights thumper and an Urban Renewal official.

"Say, Joe, what do you think of Agnew?"

"The governor?" Sims answers, grinning, stalling momentarily while working up an answer to a question he's been asked day and night for weeks.

"Yeah, what do you think?"

"Man, I think he's bad news. Very, very bad news."

His answer is on target in more ways than one. Spiro T. Agnew, Republican candidate for vice president, has indeed been bad news—to Negroes, to liberals and in fact even to his own party.

Since the man's nomination, almost everything that has appeared in print about Agnew has been bad news. First the Republican division concerning his choice; then the immediate coupling of his philosophy with blood-and-thunder conservatism; finally the uproarious groan of the entire Negro population.

Hardly anything nice has been written about the candidate and his friends are increasingly concerned that America is forming a counterfeited portrait of the man.

He is not, they insist:

A Southern collaborator, an indiscriminate shooter of rioting looters, an opportunist who would woo either a white or black sympathy vote or insensitive to the significant underlying causes of national bickering.

But he is, they say:

An intelligent, moral executive who makes decisions based on conviction rather than pressure, a modern progressive who is optimistic about tomorrow and an immigrant's son (Greek) who appreciates the meaning of equality.

"This is a good and honest man," says a member of his staff. "If he has any fault it's probably that he's too good and honest to be in this business."

The staff member illustrates his comment with a story. Once, when the governor was younger, he advised his very near-sighted father to either get a good pair of glasses or stop driving the family car in traffic.

Father refused.

Agnew insisted.

Still no.

Finally Agnew decided that the health of his father and the good of the community were at stake. So he turned dad in to the cops.

The point is if Spiro Agnew had lived in another era, it might have been he cutting down the cherry tree. (By the

Big Squabble Over JPs at Fort Smith

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Democrats in Sebastian County have nominated 12 justices of the peace candidates who did not seek the office during the primary election, and Republicans are branding the move as "a deliberate evasion and a violation of Arkansas laws."

County Clerk Glenn Thames told The Associated Press Monday that the county Democratic way, his father relented, purchased the glasses and drove safely ever after.)

Associates believe that this kind of forthrightness is what has led the governor into the Negro cooking pot.

Even now, with reporters hounding him with the same inflammatory questions (Governor, are you really against civil disobedience?) Agnew refuses to water his answers.

Says he: "I'm not a racist and I have never been a racist. But I stand on what I've said before and what I've believed before. I will not alter what I've said or attempt to alter it in any fashion."

And as for his news image? "I believe that when they examine my record the great majority of thinking Negroes in the country will reject or repudiate the scurrilous attacks that have been made against me. The record speaks for itself."

The record, as Agnew views it, is a five-page documentation of his "civil rights accomplishments." In it, the governor itemizes his work as such:

• Appointment of 22 Negroes to state positions, including his personal staff, education, regulatory boards, examining, licensing and human service.

• Granting of $4,000,000 increase in state Welfare aid, $10,000,000 increase in aid for medically indigent and $5,000,000 to improve Negro schooling.

• Enactment of a Governor's Code of Fair Practices, the first Maryland edict which outlaws discrimination within any function of the state government.

• Passages of Fair Housing legislation, which Negroes shrug off as ineffective, but which Agnew praises as at the very least a solid beginning.

In addition, the list reads, Agnew support has struck down a century-old anti-miscegenation law, established an advisory committee on Human Rights, placed seven Negroes on draft boards, assigned a Negro civil rights co-ordinator (since resigned) and created job opportunities and training programs.

"This record," Agnew says, "is one of the most outstanding in the nation."

Friends of the governor couldn't agree more. Even flaming liberals such as former Maryland Gov. Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin have praised Agnew's work.

Says McKeldin: "I don't believe there is anything wrong with the man's heart. Nothing. I think he's a good friend of the Negro people."

On balance the man simply is what he is.

As Joe Sims on West Street might put it, he's a good man who makes bad news.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

party met in convention about three weeks ago and nominated the dozen persons for the office. He said they would be placed on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

"The men were nominated," Thames said. "They didn't really go out and seek this job. They were nominated to fill vacancies."

However, Rep. George Nowotny of Fort Smith, the GOP leader in the Arkansas House, said there were no vacancies to fill.

Nowotny said the Democrats made their move after discovering that Republicans were seeking nine of the seats unopposed and that no one from either party had filed for three other positions.

The filing deadline for the July primary election was May 1.

Thames says an attorney for the County Board of Election Commissioners tells him the maneuver is legal, but Nowotny says he believes the Democrats are "stretching a point."

Nowotny said the only provision he knows of for filling vacancies is when a nominee of a party becomes incapacitated. This is not the case in the current squabble, Nowotny said.

"As far as I'm concerned they're flagrantly violating the election laws to do this."

J. C. Patterson, chairman of the Sebastian Republican Committee, said the move was "a deliberate evasion and a violation of Arkansas laws."

He said it "again points out the inherent danger of a one-party system."

Patterson said the 12 candidates were "innocent citizens" who had been "advised incorrectly to participate in this illegal plot."

Could See No Problems in Schools

GOULD, Ark. (AP) — Supt. Raymond Sage said there were "no problems at all" as the Gould School District began classes Monday operating a unitary system for Negroes and whites.

Sage estimated that about 480 Negroes and 60 whites attended the first day of classes. About 275 attended the all-white school last year.

The U.S. Supreme Court ordered Gould to abandon its dual school system on May 27 when it instructed U.S. District Judge Gordon Young to require the district to go to a unitary system. Young handed down the order Aug. 8.

Sage said the students attended classes for a half day Monday and would do so again today. The regular class routine will begin Wednesday, he said.

"We were totally integrated and there were no problems at all," Sage said. He said the faculty of 30 was about evenly split between Negro and white teachers.

Most of the students who attended the all-white school last year will attend schools in neighboring towns or a private all-white school which is expected to open here around Oct. 1, Sage said.

China Behind, U.S. Tailors Defenses

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China is nearly a year late testing its first long-range missiles and Pentagon officials say the lag may allow the United States to put off starting a controversial defense system tailored to the Chinese threat.

"We don't see any evidence of Chinese preparations for an ICBM test," one official said. Defense sources said the U.S. government has information that elements pushing Mao Tse Tung's cultural revolution have been harassing nuclear and missile scientists and managers.

For a long time, U.S. authorities felt that these elite specialists were exempted from attack as China placed an apparent top priority on developing an intercontinental ballistic missile arsenal.

Back in January 1967, then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara forecast to Congress that Red China might stage a long-range missile test before the end of 1967.

McNamara predicted last September that Red China would have "an initial intercontinental ballistic missile capability in the early 1970's."

With a slippage of nearly a year in testing the first Chinese ICBM, it is logical to assume that the Chinese effort to develop a full weapon system is lagging.

This, in turn, would seem to

Pole Leader Emerges as a Winner

By MARTIN ZUCKER
Associated Press Writer

WARSAW (AP) — The occupation of Czechoslovakia has given Wladyslaw Gomulka a boost against a challenge to his leadership of the Polish Communist party, observers in Warsaw believe.

These observers regard the checking of the liberalization drive in Prague as a personal victory for Gomulka that has strengthened his position in the unresolved power struggle with deputy Politburo member Mieczyslaw Moczar, the former interior minister and secret police chief.

Moczar has been considered a rival of Gomulka for several years, using his influence as ease the urgency of going ahead with deployment soon of a U.S. system designed to guard the United States against a possible Chinese missile attack.

Officials said there has been some discussion in the Pentagon of whether or not the Sentinel antimissile system deployment should be stretched out.

There has been no change in the decision to go ahead with the $5-billion Sentinel, these officials said, but the possibility has been raised of deferring its start for some months.

The discussions have additional point at this time because the Defense Department is searching for ways to cut down on spending this fiscal year.

The Pentagon is under orders to come up with something in spending reductions. The going has been slow.

A number of actions have been announced, but they add up to only about $500 million so far.

The defense appropriation bill for this bookkeeping year includes about $342 million toward deployment of the antimissile system.

head of an organization of wartime partisans and the police as his platform of operation. One technique has been to replace men in key positions with persons loyal to him.

He is believed to have been one of the prime forces behind the purge campaign last spring, following student demonstrations and rioting, which ousted Jews, intellectuals, liberals and former Stalinists from party ranks and government jobs.

During the summer there was considerable speculation that Gomulka's days in power were numbered. There were those who said the quadrennial party congress in November would depose him although he would retain some figurehead position.

Others said he would last six months after the congress or even two years.

But Gomulka's alignment of Poland with the hard-line stance of the Soviet Union, both ideologically and militarily, against the Czechoslovak reforms has made him a much harder man to budge.

Observers consider him certain of Moscow's support. He has wholeheartedly backed the Soviet campaign for a Communist unity conference. He has backed Soviet condemnation of Israel and now he has committed an estimated 45,000 troops to the joint military occupation in Czechoslovakia.

Of the 30,000 deaths from snakebites which occur annually, Burma has the highest incidence, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Humphrey Should Have Let Chicago Statement Stand

Last Saturday when Mayor Richard J. Daley was under fire because of the Chicago police's tough handling of mobs which threatened the Democratic National Convention Hubert H. Humphrey, the party's presidential nominee, came to the mayor's aid, said Humphrey: "We ought to quit pretending that Mayor Daley did something that was wrong. He didn't condone a thing that was wrong. He tried to protect lives."

Considering the racial overtones of this and earlier mob violence in Chicago Mr. Humphrey's statement was, for a man seeking the presidency, an outstanding example of truth and political courage. He should have let that statement stand unqualified. But he didn't.

In a television interview Monday in New York the Democratic standard-bearer reconsidered his original rashness and retreated with the observation that the Chicago police "did over-react in some instances."

And today's dispatches report Humphrey is now resorting to the old Lyndon B. Johnson formula: Don't endorse vigorous police action—just call for a citizens commission to talk over the problem of demonstrators, police, and harassed TV, radio, and newspaper reporters.

Humphrey should have stood on his first statement, backing Mayor Daley and the Chicago police. It got him potential votes—all of which he lost in his later retraction. One national poll reported more than 60 per cent of its respondents endorsed the tough stand of Mayor Daley and his police in stopping the mob's attempt to march on the Democratic National Convention.

Television and press association men got themselves pretty well involved in the Chicago rioting—so involved, in fact, that their screams about "police brutality" left the reading and viewing audience cold. And the impression you and I got was sustained by a public opinion poll—60 per cent upholding law-enforcement in Chicago.

Racial overtones and their relation to votes in the presidential election were less significant in the convention crisis than Chicago's traditional atmosphere of mob violence—ever since the days of the Capone gang—a violence which Mayor Daley put down when it threatened a free choice for the Democratic nominating convention.

That's the point most Americans understood and endorsed. Humphrey, too, had it for a moment—then went into a campaign strategy "conference" and threw his chance away.

Warm Air Brings Heavy State Showers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warm and humid air moving northward across Arkansas is expected to bring heavy shower and thundershower activity to the state through Wednesday. The increased shower activity is being caused by conflicts between complex high pressure systems and complex low pressure systems that criss-cross the nation today, along with movement of Gulf moisture into the state.

However, the only rainfall reported around the state in the 24-hour period that ended at 7:30 a.m. today was 0.01 inches at Texarkana and 0.12 inches at El Dorado.

Low temperatures reported around the state this morning ranged from 63 degrees at Fayetteville to 70 at El Dorado, Texarkana and Fort Smith. Highs Tuesday ranged from 85 at Harrison to 94 at Little Rock and Fort Smith.

Berkeley in a 'State of Disaster'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — City Manager William C. Hanley has declared a state of civil disaster in this university city following two days of violence on Telegraph Avenue.

Hanley took the action Monday saying that because of the "state of disaster" he was prohibiting loitering on the avenue between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., as well as assemblies, parades and the use of amplifiers on city streets or other public property.

Hanley acted after a bombing broke a water main Sunday night and a policeman was shot in the leg and four other patrolmen were injured Friday. That outbreak followed a rally protesting police action in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention.

Kurling the two nights of violence 30 persons were arrested. Young activists are seeking to turn two blocks of Telegraph Avenue into a pedestrian mall.

The avenue is a narrow street lined with small shops and bookstores that runs southward from the University of California campus in this San Francisco East Bay city of 120,000.

The avenue was relatively quiet Monday night as police enforced the new restriction. Leaders of activist and militant groups could not be reached immediately for comment.

Police used tear gas Sunday night to clear away a crowd that was attracted by the explosion that shattered windows, broke the water main and tore a hole in a building under construction. No cause for the blast has yet been found.

Concerning the activists, Police Capt. Vic Vieira said: "They just want the street for rallies and dances and they want us out of there."

"Some are students, but not all, and many are not even Berkeley residents," he continued.

Police Inspector RERT Beren named the groups that sponsored the Friday night rally that preceded the disturbance, but said that demonstration was completed before trouble began.

The groups that sponsored the rally Friday were the Black Panthers, a militant Negro group, the Students for a Democratic Society, the International Socialist Association, the Young Socialist Alliance and the Peace and Freedom Party.

Czech Liberals Chart Course Seeking End to Soviet Occupation

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's liberal leaders charted a careful course today, seeking an early end to the Soviet occupation.

Informed sources said Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek told the party's central committee not enough attention had been paid to "the opinions of other states in the Warsaw Pact as a limiting factor in the speed and forms of our own political development."

The new, predominantly liberal 21-man Communist party presidium—elected Sunday—met Monday with instructions from the central committee to work for both speedy withdrawal of the 650,000 occupation troops and implementation of the reform program begun in January.

Dubcek's speech was interpreted as a warning to the reformers to go slow. It also appeared to be traditional Communist self-criticism for not anticipating the Soviet intervention.

Vocerni Praha, the only newspaper published in Prague Monday, said the central committee also voted to:

—Support the party leaders who negotiated the agreement in Moscow accepting the Soviet occupation and reimposing press censorship while allowing the liberals to remain in office.

—Restate Czechoslovak alliance

Congress to Convene on Wednesday

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With one ear tuned to the presidential candidates and the other to the voters back home, congressmen return Wednesday to face some hot political topics and the possibility of a long session.

Thorniest matters before the Congress are stricter gun controls and President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.

The nomination is still in the Senate Judiciary Committee and it's anybody's guess when—and if—it will reach the floor.

Warren himself said two weeks ago in a speech that he expects to be around to open the court's fall session next month. If Republicans carry through with a threat to filibuster, Warren may have to keep his pledge to President Johnson to stay on indefinitely.

Johnson has nominated federal Judge Homer Thornberry to

Man Injured in Blast Doing Fine

Bobby Hudson, injured in an oven explosion at Joe's City Bakery downtown about noon Monday, was reported to be doing real well in a Texarkana hospital where he was taken for treatment.

He suffered burns about the face, arms and chest but all were believed second degree. It was first thought he sustained a severe chest injury from the oven door which was blown off. A spokesman at the Bakery said Tuesday that he suffered second degree burns and although painful, he will be fine.

What triggered the blast remains a mystery although officials are now inclined to believe it was caused by an electrical switch. The oven was badly damaged and the explosion knocked out a plate glass window at the front of the bakery.

The Bakery is expected to reopen for business possibly late today or Wednesday.

Asks Probe of Disorders in Chicago

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has called for a blue ribbon citizens committee investigation into the roles of demonstrators, police and news media in the bloody protest disorders in Chicago.

The Democratic presidential candidate made the proposal in New York Monday after marching in a Labor Day parade up Fifth Avenue.

Humphrey said the committee—whose members could include lawyers, sociologists, police and media representatives but not public officials—should focus on "the actions of the demonstrators, the conduct of the police and the role of the media."

"I don't know who's really involved, everybody makes charges and countercharges," Humphrey said. "But I do think it was a sad enough picture to the American public that it necessitates a very objective analysis."

He said a group such as the Ford Foundation could take the lead in forming the committee.

Humphrey over the weekend defended Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's police measures. But he said Monday he did not condone beating of demonstrators with clubs and said he didn't think Daley wanted to condone it either.

Humphrey's remarks were in interviews on education station WNDT-TV and for Barry Gray's program on WMCA, both in New York.

Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace said meanwhile "the mess in Chicago and the mess both national parties have gotten us into" have boosted his chances for election in November.

"That crowd of demonstrators in Chicago was trying to take over the city," Wallace said in Darlington, S.C., "and they would have if it hadn't been for the police."

On the Republican side, presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon's camp rejected Humphrey's proposal that they jointly support the efforts of Paris peace negotiators—saying he al-

Local Group Attends Milk Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Audrey Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hamilton joined over 500 other members and their families of the Central Arkansas Milk Producers Association to attend the first annual meeting of Milk Producers, Inc., in San Antonio, Tex., August 30 and 31. The Hamiltons represented the Vernon Brown Dairy.

Over 3,000 members and their families representing 7 states attended the meeting. Each state Association provided a chartered bus or train for transportation and an all-expense trip to the meeting.

President Johnson was the speaker at the banquet on Friday night, and he was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson, Sen. and Mrs. J. William Fulbright, Rep. and Mrs. Wilbur Mills, Rep. and Mrs. John Paul Ham-merschmidt, and Rep. and Mrs. David Pryor were among the distinguished guests.

Former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture George L. Mohren was the speaker at the Saturday morning session. Free tickets were given to the HemisFair and the Dale Robertson Show on Saturday afternoon and night. All returned home Sunday.

Quake Toll 11,000; 6,000 Missing in a Single Iran Village

By PARVIS RAEIN
Associated Press Writer

KAHKH, Iran (AP) — Wrapped in bloodstained clothing, the dazed survivors of this shattered village wander aimlessly through the rubble.

At least 6,000 of the 7,000 people of this once prosperous village are dead or missing following the earthquake Saturday that devastated some 750 square miles in northeastern Iran. Officials estimate the death toll at about 11,000.

In Kakhk, little remains of the attractive little township that once had two broad-tree-lined streets with a pool at the crossroads and a mosaic-domed mosque overlooking it.

Only the mosque still stands, and it is cracked and could collapse at any moment.

Most of the children are gone, buried in the debris where their homes stood.

Swollen bodies, arms and hands sticking out of the rubble, an occasional child crying for its family—these are left.

Only 3,500 bodies have been recovered, and the search for the missing continues. The feeling among the survivors is one of hopelessness.

Ruling Keeps Democrats in Power

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court ruled today that the state Board of Election Commissioners does not have to name a member of the majority party as the third member of county boards of election commissioners.

The 5-2 decision, which left Arkansas' election machinery in the control of Democrats, said the board must name a board member to represent the majority party, although he need not be a member of that party.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, whose Republican party meets the technical definition of majority party in Arkansas, said he was "shocked and stunned" by the decision.

Tom Eisele, the governor's legal advisor, said the GOP never contended that the third member should be a member of the Republican party, "but we do contend that he should be someone designated by us."

The decision of the court, he snapped, allows the state Board of Election Commissioners to name as staunch a Democrat as former six-term Gov. Orval E. Faubus to a county board and call him the Republican

Terrorists Kill 20 in Saigon Raid

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists launched two grenade attacks inside Saigon today and enemy troops struck a district town only 20 miles from the capital, killing civilians and burning down houses.

The grenade attacks came as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in Saigon were on full alert for such incidents.

The first grenade exploded in front of the main headquarters of the U.S. Agency for International Development. Witnesses said the grenade was thrown from a motorcycle on which two persons were riding. The terrorists appeared to have escaped.

Seven South Vietnamese civilians, six of them AID employees, were wounded by the exploding grenade. No Americans were hurt, although hundreds of Americans were at work inside the eight story concrete building.

Initial U.S. reports had said two South Vietnamese were killed and eight wounded, but this was revised downward.

The second grenade attack came about four hours later in front of a bar in the Saigon dock area. Four Vietnamese men, two women and two children were wounded there, police said.

Viet Cong forces attacked Long Thanh, a government district town 20 miles east of the capital, killing 20 civilians, wounding another 50 and burning down 85 houses with a heavy mortar attack followed by a ground assault.

For the fourth straight day, the U.S. Command reported only "light and scattered" ground action across the country. But U.S. B52 bombers kept up their protective attacks on the approaches to Saigon to blunt that expected big enemy offensive if the Viet Cong is preparing for one.

The eight-engine bombers struck eight times Monday night and today at suspected enemy positions west and northwest of Saigon, mostly 25 to 35 miles away from the capital.

B52 raids have concentrated increasingly closer to Saigon in past days, indicating enemy units have slipped or fought their way through the outermost defense lines set up to protect the capital. But a senior U.S. source said it appeared that enemy units were not ready for a full-scale ground assault on Saigon within the next few days.

Viet Cong forces killed another 20 civilians, wounded 50 and burned down 85 houses in a heavy mortar attack and ground assault on Long Thanh, a district town 20 miles east of Saigon. The town's defense force of 100 militiamen and 40 policemen reported one of their men killed and eight wounded, while enemy casualties were not known.

Another 16 civilians were killed and 12 were wounded when a bus triggered a Viet Cong land mine near Phan Thiet, a provincial capital 100 miles northeast of Saigon.

Some observers thought the enemy had begun its long-expected third offensive when it shattered a two-month lull in the war on Aug. 18 with fierce attacks in Tay Ninh Province along the northwest approaches to Saigon. The fighting spread to other areas, and the enemy radio announced last week that an offensive was under way.

But the U.S. Command refused to characterize the action as the third major enemy offensive of the war, even after the first week of fierce fighting when 7,500 enemy troops were reported killed by allied forces.

Enemy forces gradually have gone back to shelling and terrorist attacks less costly to them in terms of casualties, and have launched no significant ground attacks in the last four days. However, allied forces searching for the enemy have touched off some fighting.

Enemy gunners struck in the Da Nang area again today, hitting a U.S. supply base with 25 mortar shells. Spokesmen said American casualties were light. An enemy rocket attack on Da Nang Monday killed 27 civilians and wounded 46.

Czechs Debate With Troops From Russia

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
PRAGUE (AP) — If you want a grass roots discussion of the issues between Soviet communism and the more liberal variety, there's nothing like a debate between a Soviet soldier and a Czech student furious at the invasion of his country.

You can hear such a debate any night in Wenceslas Square, in the center of Prague. The participants: For Moscow—the crew of a Soviet armored car on guard outside the office of a newspaper appropriately called Svobodne Slovo, Free Speech. For Prague—a variety of youths, most of them wearing blue jeans and sports shirts, and a few of their elders, too.

It's fairly primitive stuff, but nobody can be accused of dodging the issues. "Why did you come here?" asks a long-haired Czech boy aggressively. "There's a counterrevolution here," replies a Soviet private of about the same age. "We came to save you from capitalism."

"Have you seen any counter-revolutionaries or capitalists around? We're all Socialists here. We want our own kind of socialism. We didn't ask you to come."

"You Czechs shoot at us. There are 40,000 counter-revolutionaries in Czechoslovakia."

"How do you know?" "It says so in Pravda." "Do you believe what you read in Pravda or what you see with your own eyes?" It goes on for hours. Finally the Soviet officer in charge says good night and it's time for everyone to go to bed. Similar scenes take place at a half a dozen spots in Prague where Soviet troops are on guard or camped. At Chrobicko Park, near the railway station, the debaters sometimes stretch out on the grass, relaxed and friendly.

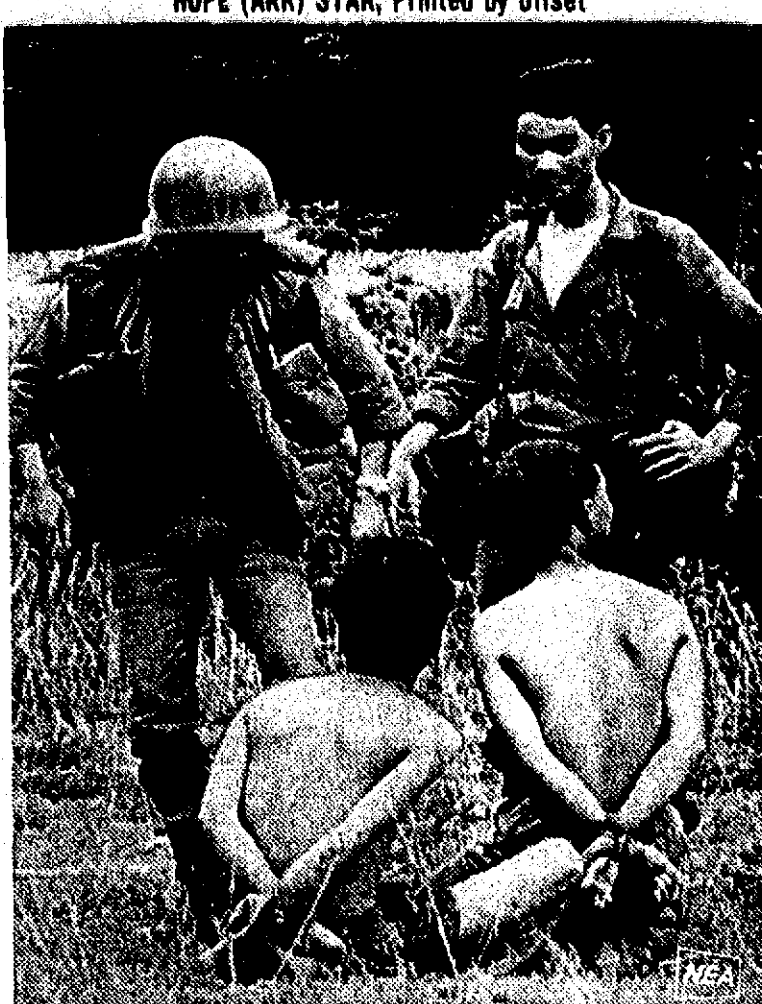

Girls show up, too. They seem sharper tongued than the boys. The argument can get heated. Monday night a Czechoslovak police edan stopped in the square and took away an earnest, hairy young man with a gold chain around his neck.

"Why did you come here?" he had shouted repeatedly at a stolid young Russian soldier, waving his arms. "Why? Why?"

A team of experienced debaters, what the Soviets call an agitprop—agitation and propaganda team, occasionally turns up on the Russian side.

Four Jailed in Kentucky for Murder

BEREA, Ky. (AP) — Fourteen men were arraigned today on murder charges in a gun fight during which two men died and several others were wounded.

One of the victims was white and one Negro. Eight of those arraigned were white, six Negro.

An examining trial for all 14 men was tentatively scheduled for next Monday. State police said the shooting broke out Sunday following a rally in a vacant lot by the National States' Rights party, a rightist organization. Some witnesses reported as many as 40 shots were fired.

It was not immediately determined what sparked the shooting. Some witnesses said there was an exchange of remarks between the whites who had run the meeting and Negroes who arrived as it was breaking up.

Elvie Rucker, 30, white, from Lexington, and George W. Boggs, a Negro from Berea, were killed.

Police said Rucker was killed as he ran toward his car, in which police said they found two M1 rifles and a 12-gauge shotgun. Rucker was an officer of the National States' Rights party.

Several other persons were wounded—none seriously—by the gunfire.

regard as Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon's chief campaign weapon.

On Saturday, in an interview here, Humphrey gave what most observers considered to be a defense of Mayor Richard J. Daley and Chicago police for their action in putting down the violence that surrounded the Democratic National Convention.

"We ought to quit pretending that Mayor Daley did something that was wrong," the vice president said in a radio interview. "He didn't condone a thing that was wrong. He tried to protect lives."

On Sunday, addressing a hometown welcoming rally in this lakeside town some 40 miles from Minneapolis, the vice president denounced "militant, strident, violent" persons for their tendency "to take to the streets to settle their problems."

But Monday, in a New York television interview, Humphrey appeared to ease the tenor of his remarks.

Four times within half an hour he said Chicago police "did overreact in some instances."

And he said, "I really didn't have anything to do with what happened in Chicago except inside the convention."

As for Mayor Daley, he said, "I'm sure he didn't want to condone the beating of those people with clubs. I don't condone it."

He went on to suggest a sort of Johnsonian compromise, creation of a blue-ribbon committee to study "the actions of the police and the role of the media" in the Chicago disturbances.

In both that interview, shown Monday night on education station WNDT-TV, New York, and in a later radio interview of Barry Gray's program on WMCA, Humphrey discussed the proposed committee.

"I don't know who's really involved, everybody makes charges and countercharges," he said in the radio interview.

3 Killed in Lake Village Plane Crash

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. (AP) — Three men returning from a dove hunting trip in Mississippi were killed instantly Monday night when a single-engine airplane crashed and burned on the normally busy U.S. 82 two miles west of here.

State Police identified the dead as Guy A. Freeling Jr., 47, of North Little Rock, and Dr. Jan. W. Crow, 44, and Charles Rhoden, 33, both of Jacksonville.

The crash occurred about 7:30 p.m., shortly after takeoff from the Lake Village airport.

Police said the right wing of the plane struck a radio tower on takeoff, causing the plane, a Beachcraft, to crash.

The plane burst into flames when it struck the highway. The Lake Village Fire Department extinguished the blaze but the Lake Village Fire Department extinguished the blaze but traffic was blocked for one mile.

State Police said there was a task force of troopers in the area working the Labor Day weekend traffic and that officers arrived on the scene within seconds after the crash.

Officers said the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Administration were sending investigators to the scene.

The accident occurred on what is normally a busy stretch of highway carrying traffic between Arkansas and Mississippi and Arkansas and Louisiana.

The crash scene was two miles west of Lake Village, between the city and the junction of U.S. 65 south with U.S. 82.

Freeling, the pilot, was the executive vice president of the First American National Bank in North Little Rock, a position he had held since May 1967.

Rhoden was the night foreman for the International Business Forms of Little Rock, a printing concern. He was a former printer at the Arkansas Gazette.

Crow was engaged in general practice at Jacksonville. He was a native of Arkadelphia, a town his father once served as mayor.

Maimonides was Moses ben Maimon, a Jewish philosopher of the Middle Ages whose writings have been an influential force in Jewish thought and ritual.

Two bills that would ban the mail order sales of rifles and shotguns reached the Senate just before Congress adjourned for the national political conventions Aug. 2. One was reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee and the other came over from the House.

Backers of even stricter legislation have threatened to battle on the floor for inclusion of registration and licensing provisions which were soundly defeated by the House and by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A third measure that could erupt into controversy is the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, still in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Since the Russians invaded Czechoslovakia, there have been suggestions that Senate ratification be put off for a year.

Foreign aid, already battered down to a million dollars less than President Johnson asked, may run into some additional flak because it is a controversial issue that becomes even more so in an election season. A bill authorizing $1.96 million in foreign aid for the current fiscal year is now before House-Senate conferees. The authorization is likely to survive but appropriations could be much lower.

The Senate returns to face an appropriations bill for the Health, Education and Welfare and Labor departments as its immediate order of business. The House has four relatively minor bills on the docket for this holiday week.

But something may develop on the political front Sept. 11, when the House Committee has scheduled a meeting for consideration of a proposal to suspend equal time provisions of federal law for the presidential campaigns.

The three major radio-television networks have offered Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon time for face-to-face debate in their race for the White House. But this is contingent upon Congress lifting the requirements under which similar time would have to be made available to minor party candidates.

A 1960 suspension cleared the way for debates between Nixon and John F. Kennedy.

Few Vote in Thailand's Election

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The government has ordered an inquiry to find out why only about 18 per cent of those eligible voted Sunday in Bangkok's first municipal election in years.

The election gave 22 of the 24 council seats to members of the Democratic party. Elections and political parties had been banned in Thailand since a military coup in 1958.

The low turnout was taken by many as a snub to the military government, which entered a slate of candidates of its own.

The council members will have little room to maneuver in their five years in office. The Interior Ministry which has ruled Bangkok through the appointed council retains the right to dissolve the elected body if it acts "in a manner prejudicial to the public interest."

A&M Player Makes Team

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A former Arkansas A&M player and two former Southwest Conference stars were among the five rookies retained on the Kansas City Chiefs squad Monday as the American Football League team made its final cuts to reach the 40-player limit.

Retained were defensive back Ceaser Belsor of A&M, quarterback Mike Livingston of Southern Methodist and offensive guard Maurice Moorhead of Texas A&M. Belsor was on the Chiefs' taxi squad last season.

In late July, the divided House committee voted 18-10 to postpone any action on the issue until after the conventions. The Senate has passed a waiver for the two top offices from Aug. 31 through election day.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said the post-convention session could continue the rest of the year, with a recess sometime in October through the elections. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., thinks the session won't go beyond Oct. 10.

All of the 435 House seats are subject to election and 34 of the 100 Senate seats will be filled on Nov. 5—and members undoubtedly would like to get back to the hustings for full-time campaigning as soon as possible.

PRICE OF PROGRESS — HIGHER!

Progress in our hospitals means new drugs...new and better medical techniques...new life-saving machines...more skilled technicians. All this costs more money. This progress, however, means more people leave the hospital healthy again and ready to resume normal lives. Blue Cross Hospital Benefits keep pace with today's better hospital care, automatically providing PAID IN FULL coverage on nearly all hospital services. The important thing is that you get the care you need to get well. We wouldn't have it any other way!

LAST MONTH'S SCORECARD

TOTAL PAID for care of Arkansas members	$1,404,179.61
TOTAL NUMBER of bills paid for care of Arkansas members	18,554
LARGEST SINGLE payment for care of one Arkansas member	$5,967.75

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: The large payment of $5,967.75 noted above would almost pay the cost of a college education. If you have a son or daughter going to school, could your budget stand the added expense of a serious illness or accident?

OUR STUDENT PLAN (for full time students between the ages of 19 and 24) costs only pennies a day. It provides protection from September to September. The plan is not subject to any deductible amount...it pays up to $20 daily on hospital room charges for as many as 120 days per admission. PLUS there is a $300 accident benefit—especially important if the student travels. Write for free information and an application—and hurry!

RECENT HEADLINE "Arkansas Needs 4000 Nurses"

A sobering fact when you consider the important part nursing plays in Arkansas' health care progress. There are thousands of interesting and rewarding careers awaiting the enterprising young person. For information about these opportunities, write to Health Careers, Box 3381, Little Rock 72203.

Muskie Set to Get on Golf Course

KENNEBUNK BEACH, Maine (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie began a few days of rest at his summer home here today, anxious to get on the golf course.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee arrived at the Portland airport Sunday evening to a roaring welcome from 3,000 of his supporters. It was his first visit to Maine since his nomination.

Looking rested, Muskie told the crowd that compromise and

Democrats in Georgia Have Problem

By TED SIMMONS

Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia Democrats have divergent views on their party as a result of the Democratic National Convention, which threw out half its regular delegation because of its racial makeup. For example:

"Right now, the Georgia Democratic party is the underdog of all underdogs. It's got a long way to go. I think it will survive, but things may have to get worse before they get better," said former Gov. Carl E. Sanders.

"The Georgia party is stronger than ever. I don't see what happened at the convention affecting the structure of the state party at all," said James Gray, state party chairman.

"I would hope we could rebuild the Democratic party so it has room for all groups, liberals and conservatives," said State Rep. Julian Bond.

The convention rejected half the regular delegation and seated half of a challenge group led by Bond—a move which has driven some conservatives out of the party, left most of the moderates angry and resentful, and created a polarization of party factions.

The effects of the credentials committee's action, which state party officials contend was politically motivated and resulted from a "double cross" by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's forces, already are being felt.

Gray, who under party rules must certify all Democratic candidates, says he will make a determined attempt to keep electors for the national party nominees off the Georgia ballot.

"I'm not going to certify the national party electors," he said. "I'm going to call a meeting of the state executive committee and try to put up our own electors under the Democratic emblem."

"Now that the convention is over, they (national party leaders) have got to come back and do business with us," said Gray, who headed the Georgia Democrats for Goldwater in 1964. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, carried the state in the first GOP presidential victory in Georgia since Reconstruction.

Gray's plan to keep the national nominees off the Georgia ballot already has touched off what some observers inside the party describe as the beginning of bitter fighting on whether to turn away from the national party.

Some moderates say they reluctantly went to Chicago with a delegation led by Gov. Lester Maddox, then stayed to ride out the storm and don't intend now to watch their efforts go down the drain.

And if Gray is successful in convincing the state executive committee to run a slate of independent electors, a legal fight is likely to ensue.

A list of avowed independent electors running under the Democratic emblem almost certainly would be challenged in the courts, by the group which challenged the delegation and which is now challenging the reapportionment of the state's national committee woman and committeemen.

Even Maddox has expressed differences with Gray on the matter.

Memphis Wins Legion Title

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Post No. 1 of Memphis, Tenn., reigned as the champion of the 43rd American Legion World Series today after virtually bunting its way to the title.

Memphis employed the bunt with artistry and squeezed home a ninth inning run Monday night for a 4-3 victory over Klamath Falls, Ore., in the windup of the double elimination tournament.

A single by Charlie Blanchard, a sacrifice, a safe bunt by Al Andre and a suicide squeeze bunt by Terry Dan provided Memphis its fifth straight victory and handed Klamath Falls its second loss.

Republican Contests in Three States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Attention focuses on Republican contests today as voters go to the polls in primary elections in Iowa, Nevada and North Dakota.

Iowa Republicans mark ballots in a four-way race for the nomination to succeed retiring Republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper. Gov. Harold E. Hughes appeared a certain victory for the Democratic bid.

The GOP contest to oppose Nevada's Democratic Sen. Alan Bible has first-term Lt. Gov. Ed Fike pitted against veteran prosecutor William Raggio of Reno. Party leaders saw a close race.

In North Dakota, the GOP contestants bidding to oppose Democratic Gov. William L. Guy are Ed Doherty, a weekly newspaper publisher from New Rockford, and Robert P. McCamey, a Bismarck car dealer. Neither has held elective office while Guy seeks an unprecedented fourth two-year term.

A light vote was expected in North Dakota but Nevada officials predicted a 60 per cent turnout and a heavier-than-usual showing was expected in Iowa.

The first polls open at 7 a.m. local time in all three states. The last ones close at 7 p.m. in Nevada and North Dakota and 8 p.m. in Iowa.

The four-way battle in Iowa includes former Rep. James Bromwell of Cedar Rapids; State Sen. David M. Stanley, of Muscatine; former state Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman of Nevada; and William Plymat, a Des Moines insurance man.

Stanley, who announced his candidacy six months before Hickenlooper said he would retire after 24 years, issued the press an invitation to his victory celebration but the polls indicated a close race between Stanley and Bromwell, who has Hickenlooper's endorsement.

Gov. Hughes is opposed by Des Moines insurance man Robert Nereim.

State Treasurer Pat Franzenburg is unopposed for the Democratic bid to succeed Hughes as governor but the GOP has a three-way contest, Robert Ray, who quit as GOP state chairman to make the race; Donald Johnson a past national commander of the American Legion, and former State Rep. Robert K. Beck are the contenders.

Only one of the seven incumbents seeking renomination to Congress is opposed, Rep. John Kyl of Bloomfield is opposed in the GOP primary by H. Paul Dee of Marshalltown.
